Clinical Monitoring Oversight

Worldwide Flex offers flexible processes and technology that are then customized and selected to fit your needs. Our expert team members have 10 years or more of experience in therapeutically aligned areas. They complement your teams and need minimal onboarding or training for clinical trials across multiple therapeutic areas.

The Challenge

A small U.S.-based biotech client needed clinical monitoring oversight on a global central nervous system (CNS) program. A large contract research organization (CRO) was responsible for the clinical management on the program. Client felt that additional clinical oversight support of the monitoring team would benefit this program, which included four separate projects conducted in 18 countries.

The Solution

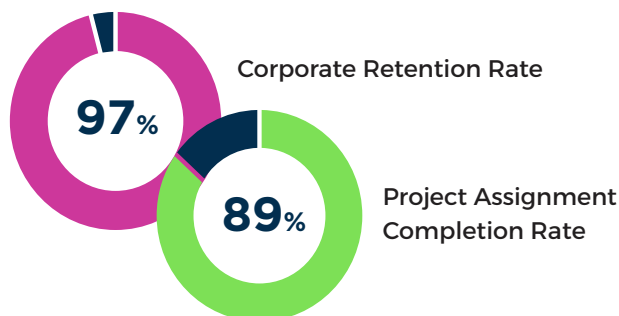

- Worldwide Flex put together a global team that utilized the client's systems and processes.
- The team consisted of five Clinical Trial Managers, 18 clinical oversight monitors, and a dedicated clinical resourcing manager (CRM).
- Site assignments for the clinical oversight monitors were maximized to cover multiple projects in the portfolio as well as multiple countries.

Our CRMs are dedicated industry professionals, not just recruiters. The CRMs are pivotal in facilitating selection of team members and monitoring team oversight. They make sure that everything fits together and runs smoothly. Oversight managers deployed on this program have an average of 15 years of clinical experience.

The Outcome

As a result of our successful collaboration, Worldwide Flex was awarded the oversight monitoring work for the client's next Phase III pivotal study. The Worldwide Flex team is looking forward to supporting this large global program with our expert clinical monitoring team members. Worldwide Flex will align with the sponsor on a resourcing strategy that is the most efficient and effective for this study.

Since the start of the study in 2021, there is 100% retention of the team.
